Vale appoints new Executive Officer for the Base Metals division

Vale informs that Mr. Eduardo de Salles Bartolomeo was appointed as Vale's new Executive Officer for the Base Metals division to begin on January 1st, 2018

Eduardo de Salles Bartolomeo has a graduate degree in metallurgical engineering from Universidade Federal Fluminense and MBA from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and from Katholieke Universiteit in Leuven, Belgium. He worked in Vale from 2007 to 2012 as the leader of several different departments, including the role of Executive Officer for the Fertilizer and Coal Operations and Marketing. He was a member of Vale's Strategic Committee from September 2016 to October 2017. He has been a member of Vale's Board of Directors since September 2016, and member of Financial Committee and Compliance and Risk Committee since November 2017.

With experience in leading large organizations in complex and competitive industries and a recognized track record in delivering results and achieving goals, Eduardo Bartolomeo's main challenge will be to make the Base Metals business sustainable with long term positive cash generation. Vale wishes Eduardo success in his new challenge.

Vale would like to reinforce the appreciation and gratitude for Jennifer Maki's commitment over the last 14 years at Vale and wish Jennifer every success in her upcoming projects.
