

Type what you want to search

Search

04/18/2008

Vale is recruiting MBA students for Summer Job program in Brazil, Canada and Australia

Vale, the world's second largest diversified mining company, is recruiting until May 9 th students from the most important MBA schools in the world to take part in a Summer Job program in Brazil, Canada and Australia. This program aims to promote the access of talents from the best universities and to reinforce the company visibility in the international academic environment.

MBA students from the top 100 rated business schools by the Financial Times ranking are eligible to apply to one of the nine vacancies. Candidates can be of any nationality and need to be fluent in English. The ideal participant should have good communication, entrepreneurial and analytical skills, business orientation, interest in the business/industry and previous working experience.

Selected candidates will receive a monthly allowance of US$ 4,300 to cover personal expenses, including meals and transportation, full assistance with visa issuing, round trip airplane ticket and health and dental plan. During the three months of internship, lodging costs and transportation to and from work will also be covered by Vale. The program is scheduled to start next June or July, according to schools summer break calendars.

During the three months of internship, students are expected to develop a relevant project to Vale applying acquired knowledge during the MBA course, related to strategic planning, marketing, finance, leadership, innovation and entrepreneurship. Detailed information about the business area and projects for each of the nine vacancies are provided at the website www.vale.com .

The Summer Job program is the first of four international recruiting programs that Vale will launch in 2008, as part of a major campaign to attract talented professionals to join the company. Besides the international programs, Vale also has four recruitment and development programs that are exclusive for Brazil. Earlier this year, the company announced plans to create 7,000 direct jobs in 2008 and 62,000 jobs from 2008 to 2012 worldwide.

About Vale

Vale is the world's second largest diversified mining company, with a market capitalization of approximately US$150 billion. Present in more than 30 countries in the five continents, Vale is the world's largest producer of iron ore and pellets, key raw materials for the steel industry, and one of the largest producers of nickel, which is used to produce stainless steel, batteries, special alloys, chemicals and other products. The company also produces copper, Vale is the world's second largest diversified mining company, with a market capitalization of approximately US$150 billion. Present in more than 30 countries in the five continents, Vale is the world's largest producer of iron ore and pellets, key raw materials for the steel industry, and one of the largest producers of nickel, which is used to produce stainless steel, batteries, special alloys, chemicals and other products. The company also produces copper, manganese, ferroalloys, bauxite, alumina, aluminum, coal, among other raw materials important to the global industrial sector.

More information

Mônica Ferreira

monica.ferreira@vale.com

Rio de Janeiro

+55 (21) 3845-3636

Fatima Cristina

fatima.cristina@vale.com

Rio de Janeiro

+55 (21) 3485-3621
